1. Abstract

A full-stack hospital day care management system for managing departments, patients, doctors, treatments, pharmacy inventory, purchases, bills, and payments. The backend (Node.js+Express+MySQL) exposes REST APIs and enforces integrity with foreign keys and database triggers. The frontend (React) provides pages for CRUD operations and dashboards.

Triggers maintain treatment balances and pharmacy stock automatically.

2. User Requirements Specification (URS)

2.1 Actors

- Admin/Staff: Manage departments, patients, doctors, items, treatments, pharmacy purchases, payments.
- Doctor: View and optionally update treatment notes.
- Accountant/Pharmacist: Handle pharmacy billing, payments, and summaries.

2.2 Functional Requirements

- Manage departments with floor and code.
- CRUD patients with unique phone number and audit logging.
- Manage doctors with specialization and department linkage.
- Record treatments with diagnosis, fees, amount paid, and balance calculation.
- Manage pharmacy items (stock, price, expiry).
- Create purchases with multiple pharmacy items.
- Record payments and update balances automatically.
- Dashboard for financial summaries.

2.3 Non-Functional Requirements

- Integrity ensured using foreign keys and triggers.
- Local deployment (Frontend: 3000, Backend: 4000).
- Indexed tables for improved performance.
- Clean UI with search and filtering.

2.4 Constraints

- Tested on MySQL 8.x
- Single `pharmacy_new` schema:

3. Software and Tools

- Database: MySQL 8.x
- Backend: Node.js, Express, mysql2, cors, dotenv 5
- Frontend: React, axios, Material UI, recharts
- Tools: npm, Workbench, VS Code

4. ER Diagram

5. Relational Schema

6. Triggers, Procedures, and Queries

6.1 Triggers Used

- `after_patient_insert`: Inserts audit log.
- `after_payment_insert`: Updates treatment balance.
- `before_payment_delete`: Rolls back paid amount.
- `after_purchase_item_insert`: Decreases item stock.
- `after_purchase_item_delete`: Restores item stock.

6.2 Stored Procedure Example

CALL add_treatment_with_payment(...);

6.3 Function Example

SELECT get_patient_balance(patient_id);

7. How to Run

mysql> source schema/daycare_hospital_system.sql

cd backend npm install npm start
```

```
cd frontend npm install

8. Conclusion

This project successfully demonstrates the integration of a relational database system with a modern web-based hospital management interface. By using triggers and foreign key constraints, the system maintains accurate and real-time updates for treatment billing balances and pharmacy stock quantities, reducing manual corrections and preventing data inconsistency. The separation of concerns between different actors ensures clarity in workflow, while dashboards and summaries support informed administrative decisions. Overall, this project provides a scalable foundation for daycare hospital operations, and additional modules such as appointment scheduling, authentication, insurance claims, and reporting analytics can be integrated in future development.
